As there is no general examination of there is a Customs staff it-is-not easy to see what other course of procedure could have been gdopted. Seeing, however, that generally tee, and Registrar of Companies. the first intimation of the importation of offered for sale, the provision as to the detention of such goods is not likely to prove of much practical utility; but as it cannot be objected to by the strongest advocate of the freedom of the port, there can be a reason why it should not remain part of the Ordinance. Beyond this prohibition of importation the Bill appears to cover little ground | pected that the Redpole would resume her voyage on the 9th instant. 23 that is not already covered by Ordinance 8 of:1863. The two differ in form, but substantially they come to the same thing, the details in which they vary being of comparatively-minor importance. THE correspondence published in another column in reference to the drainage of the B ands, all of which are excellent quality and new block of buildings on the Praya adjoining the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank seems to show that the owners have been somewhat unjustly dealt with by the Saniby ourselves, thus enabling us to supply the best tary Board. from the Sanitary Surveyor, and they were not allowed to lay them in the manner now directed, although they wished to do so. The consequence is that the owners are put to the expense of doing the work over again. That the drains as now laid are objectionable is admitted, but the sponsibility of their being so laid rests upon the Sanitary Surveyor, who inspected and passed the work while it was in progress. Such is the case made out in the letter of Messrs. Danby, Leigh and Orange, The correspondence came before the meeting of the Sanitary Board Friday, when Mr. Cooper was in attendance Capt. T. Irvine .. in order to give any explanations that might be asked for, but none of the members of the Board put any questions to him. It is ordered, for example, that compensation, so far as it is based on rental, shall be based on the reatab privable by the proper number of inhabitants of the dwelling: in other words, that rents forced up by overgrowding shall not be taken as the basis of compensation. This and similar provisions are very maces sary, as experience has shown. For the rest, there are several good and some doubtful provisions in the Bill. generally speaking, are the provisions which gnard the permissive character of much of this class of legislation. The Bill is still somewhat timid There is too much "my" in it, and too little "shall." With this has to be reckoned the slowness of the procedure provided in the case of of a condemned area. When a local authority has decided that a group of buildings ought to to be rebuilt, if may pass a resolution to that offect; it may then serve a natice on the owner or lessee; it may then petition the Local Government Board for an orlar sanctioning the-scheme; and it may then purchase the area by agreement. This is surely rather a feeble conclusion of all these deliberate steps. But if the local authority and the awner do not come to terms, the Local Government order shall lifet be published, and within two

Thus it would seem that a recalcitrant own r may dofy both the lounty Conneil and the Local Gavariment Board, or anything, in fact, except Parliment. We do not see how, if this is so, the Bill will help the world forward. It gives no new rights to local inthesities, and takes away no rights, from bad and office There are, however, two very valuable provisions in the Bill: One is that, in London, he County Conneil may, after due a dice given. stop in and supersede any vestry or District Board which it considers to hive been rumiss in performing its duty under the Act.
